The home itself is set on three levels with something for everyone. Starting at the top floor featuring four of the five bedrooms with the main offering a massive walk-in robe and a newly renovated ensuite as well as the second bathroom.

The second floor has been set aside for the main family area with an open plan kitchen, dining, and lounge, all having sweeping views across to the mountains and out to the west of the city. The ground floor is the perfect mancave or a teenage retreat - ideal for any growing family or for those that love to entertain.

Make no mistake homes like this are few and far between
